

Imperial College School of Medicine response to the GMC quality assurance report

We thank the GMC visit team for their report, which recognises the demanding conditions the London region currently faces. In particular, we are grateful for the recognition of the outstanding scientific basis of the education we provide; we believe this provides our graduates with a considerable advantage in their medical careers.

We have responded in detail to the report on a point-by-point basis in the action plan required by the GMC. We are reassured that the areas identified for improvement align closely with development activity that the School had already recognised and was undertaking on the basis of its own quality management activity.
